

To be able to read, represent and write numbers with two decimal places

Starter:

What's the same? What's different?

Explain your answer.

To be able to read, represent and write numbers with two decimal places

Activity 1:

Complete the sentences below based on the number represented by the

There are _ ones, _ tenths and _ hundredths.
The number is

There are _ ones, _ tenths and _ hundredths.
The number is

To be able to read, represent and write numbers with two decimal places

Activity 2:

Make the number given in the place value chart below. State the value of the underlined digit.

43.25

The underlined digit is or

32.46

The underlined digit is or

To be able to read, represent and write numbers with two decimal places

How many other ways can you partition 0.76?

Activity 3:

Jamal writes the following about the number 0.57

$0.57 = 0.5 + 0.07 =$ five tenths and seven hundredths

Do the same for the number 0.76

$0.76 =$

$0.76 = 0.4 + 0.36 =$

To be able to read, represent and write numbers with two decimal places

Activity 4:

Match the description with the number with the corresponding underlined digit.

2 4.16	two hundredths
4 1 .62	two tenths
14. 2 6	two ones
4 2.16	two tens

To be able to read, represent and write numbers with two decimal places

Activity 5:

Match the number with its description.

53.7	The number has the same tens and hundredths digit.
35.73	The number has one decimal place.
57.03	The number has zero ones.
50.37	The number has seven ones.

To be able to read, represent and write numbers with two decimal places

Evaluation:

There is only way to partition the number 0.74, as I have shown.

Do you agree with Astrobee?
Provide examples to explain your answer.